KBC Networks & Networks Centre Announce New Partnership

London, UK, 03 September 2009: KBC Networks and Networks Centre have announced a new partnership that will enable Networks Centre to distribute KBC Networks' communications equipment within the UK.

Under the terms of the new agreement, Networks Centre will stock a core of KBC's most popular transmission products from their ruggedized networking and digital standard fibre ranges. In addition, Networks Centre's customers will have access to KBC's ASFOM (Application Specific Fibre Optic Modem) series, which enables customers to effectively build their own transmission products by specifying the exact number and signal type within a fibre optic modem.

Iain Deuchars, President KBC Networks EMEA, commented, "We're really pleased about the new partnership – Networks Centre has a proven track record and a similar approach to KBC when it comes to providing specialist technical advice and solid customer support."

Ben Lambert, Sales & Marketing Director, Networks Centre, explained "We're delighted to partner with KBC Networks and are looking forward to supplying our customers with KBC's range of high quality products."
